

'I GOT BURNED OUT AFTER YEARS OF NEWS'

SHAUN ROBINSON

ACCESS HOLLYWOOD'S STAR REPORTER LEAVES THE RED CARPET TO SHOW OFF HER NEW HOME TO OK!

Shaun says her home's 300-square-foot closet was a huge selling point. Look at all those boxes of shoes (inset)!

Shaun Robinson has worked long and hard for both her gig on Access Hollywood and her gorgeous L.A. house. After years as a local news reporter in cities like Milwaukee and Miami, the 43-year-old and her cute pooch, Snowflake, finally have a place to call home. Shaun and her decorator, Jackie Mazur, have filled the house, perched way up in the Hollywood Hills, with comfortable furniture, and used soothing colors to create a haven for Shaun when she's not chatting with celebrities on the red carpet.

'The one person who makes me nervous is Al Pacino; I might have been shaking'

During her exclusive photo shoot and interview with OK!, Shaun let us go through her photo albums of people she's interviewed — Madonna, Oprah and Robert De Niro are just a few of her favorites. Her closet, too, is well worth gazing into: Each pair of shoes is in its own box with a Polaroid of the shoes on the front. We sat down with the Detroit native to talk about dating in L.A., her envy-inducing job and how she finally surrendered her love of pantyhose.

Do you ever get nervous when you're interviewing big Hollywood names?

I'm not starstruck anymore, but the one person who makes me nervous is Al Pacino. I think I might actually have been shaking when he walked into the room [laughs]. I made it worse by thinking that he had some food or something on his lip. I leaned over to wipe it off before realizing it was a mole. He was so funny and nice about it. He said, "You can call me mole man after this!" I still cringe when I think of that story.

Who have been your favorite people to interview?

I think my favorites are Will Smith and George Clooney. They're so down-to-earth and cool and they're the type of guys who know when to play or when to be serious. They make my job easy.

Shaun with Clive Davis and Jamie Foxx at Clive's pre-Grammys party in February.